

Immediate Dangers When Online

Have you ever gone online?

Have you ever met someone who gives out too much information online?

Did you ever put too much information online?

Well these are questions you must answer.

Here are some immediate dangers online:

- Posting pictures online.
- Saying too much about your friends and family.
- Telling what school you go to and other personal information.
- Telling where you live, phone number, email, or cell phone number.
- Talking to or meeting someone you met online but, and don't know.